

It is disasterous for the variety and the voice of our communities to allow major conglomerates to gobble up all of the stations. Soon local and community standards will no longer matter to the bottom dollar conglomerates. Our voices and opionions as Americans will be silenced in a whimper of uniform playlists and corporate memos dictating that what one listens too in Texas is good enough for me in Springfield and so on. This threatens to undermine the American voice, an essential freedom that is being eroded daily in various good "causes". This is not one of them and must, I say MUST not be allowed to take place. Already the fifth estate has lost much of its watchdog role to corporate world. Outrage, choice, voice, & numerous essential rights that make us Americans, and make America a place of envy throughout the world, would vanish in the proverbial heartbeat if only 3 companies owned the airwaves.
